Eleven Minnesota school districts are being honored by the College Board for being placed on the Advanced Placement Honor Roll.

The districts made “significant gains” in AP access to course work and overall student performance.

Districts on the list include the Mounds View Public School District, Buffalo-Hanover-Montrose Public School District, Burnsville Public School District, Eden Prairie Public School District, Elk River Public School District, Lakeville Public School District, Mankato Public School District, Orono Public School District, Prior Lake-Savage Area Schools, South Washington County School District and Wayzata Public School District.
